I urge our students to continue to embrace curiosity, develop a spirit of resilience, and to never stop learning. I would like to take this opportunity to thank our dedicated faculty and staff for their unwavering commitment to guiding and inspiring our students. I also thank our parents for their invaluable support and partnership, as we work together to shape the future leaders. FROM PRINCIPAL'S DESK

Dear Readers,

Education, at its deepest level, is not the mere transmission of facts but the awakening of the human spirit. Children who enter our school carry within them a universe of possibility, and our task is to help them discover both their depths and horizons. As I reflect on the months chronicled in this edition of Outlook, I am reminded of Tagore's words: "The highest education is that which makes our life in harmony with all existence."

The stories gathered here are not simply records of events; they are affirmations of a philosophy that sees learning as holistic growth. Our students have excelled in academics, sports, arts, and community engagement, proving that true education is a symphony of experiences. Whether through the discipline of Kudo, the rhythm of music, the eloquence of debate, or the creativity of tinkering, they have shown that knowledge must illuminate life, not merely accumulate within it.

The triumphs we celebrate—medals in Olympiads, victories in national tournaments, cultural performances, and recognition as the Number 1 Co-Ed Boarding School in Chhattisgarh—are not ends in themselves. They are milestones on a journey of resilience, imagination, and collective spirit. Each achievement reflects discipline, empathy, and perseverance, qualities that will serve our students far beyond the boundaries of school.

Equally significant are the journeys beyond classrooms: excursions to historic sites, industrial visits, university fairs, and dialogues on resilience and mental health. These experiences remind us that education is not confined to chalkboards but is found in the hum of machines, the silence of memorials, and the conversations with mentors. They prepare our students to innovate, to lead, and to serve with courage and compassion.

None of this would be possible without the dedication of our teachers, whose quiet labour lights the path for young minds. Their commitment, reflected in faculty development programs and daily interactions, is the invisible architecture upon which our visible achievements rest. To them, and to our supportive parents, I extend heartfelt gratitude.

As we look ahead, let us remember that the future is not to be predicted but created. Our students are not passive recipients of knowledge but active architects of destiny. May Outlook serve as a beacon of inspiration, reminding us that education is a journey of becoming—becoming wiser, kinder, stronger, and more humane.

In the words of Rumi, "You are not a drop in the ocean. You are the entire ocean in a drop." Each child is an ocean of possibility, and it is our sacred responsibility to help them discover their depths and horizons. This foreword stands as both reflection and promise: a reflection of what we have achieved together, and a promise of what we shall continue to strive for—an education that is profound, holistic, and transformative.

With gratitude and hope,

Girish Kumar

FROM VICE PRINCIPAL'S DIARY

We remain deeply committed to providing an educational environment that supports the holistic development of every student. Our approach integrates intellectual cultivation, character building, skill development, and the nurturing of both emotional and physical wellbeing, ensuring that each child grows with balance, purpose, and confidence.

We strengthen intellectual growth through guided learning, inquiry-based tasks, and opportunities that encourage students to think independently and apply knowledge meaningfully. Equal emphasis is placed on character formation, where values such as discipline, empathy, respect, and responsibility are reinforced through daily interactions, structured routines, and community living.

Our focus on skill acquisition is reflected through a wide range of constructive engagements. Inter-house co-curricular activities encourage teamwork and healthy competition, while our thoughtfully planned Sunday sessions—including pottery, vocal and instrumental music, Zumba, and various dance forms—help students discover their interests and refine their creative abilities. These activities not only keep students meaningfully engaged but also help them develop creativity, coordination, rhythm, self-expression, and patience.

Our daily morning assemblies set a purposeful tone for the day by promoting reflection, confidence, and collective discipline. The spirit of healthy competition and teamwork is nurtured through inter-house co-curricular activities, allowing students to showcase their abilities across diverse domains.

Physical wellbeing is promoted through structured routines, dedicated fitness practices, and a wide range of sports activities that help students channelize their energy effectively, develop discipline, and learn the value of perseverance. These efforts prepare them physically to meet the challenges of life with strength, confidence, and sustained energy.

Through all these integrated efforts, we strive to provide a residential environment that supports each child's academic progress, emotional strength, social maturity, and personal excellence. We remain committed to guiding them as they grow into responsible, confident, and well-rounded individuals.

FROM HEADMISTRESS' DESK

In today's fast-changing world, education must be more than a pursuit of high marks. As Sydney J. Harris once said, "The whole purpose of education is to turn mirrors into windows." At our school, this belief guides everything we do. We are committed to nurturing not just strong students, but confident, compassionate, and well-rounded individuals.

Holistic education invites students to grow intellectually, emotionally, physically, and spiritually. It encourages them to explore their interests, stretch their imaginations, and discover their unique strengths. Whether they are participating in extracurricular activities, engaging in community service, or learning essential life skills, our students are building the foundation they need to thrive in an ever-evolving world. Daniel Pink reminds us, "The best way to predict the future is to create it," and we strive to empower our students to do exactly that.

To support this journey, we ask parents and teachers to join hands with us. Encourage children to explore diverse interests and passions. Celebrate their effort, resilience, and progress—not just their grades. Provide opportunities for them to connect with their community, where they can develop empathy, leadership, and a sense of social responsibility.

When we embrace holistic education, we give students the chance to flourish not only academically, but personally and socially. Together, we can help them grow into individuals who are not only prepared for the future, but capable of shaping it.

Warm Wishes

Academic World School Achieves Glory: Ranked No. 1 in Chhattisgarh!

Academic World School (AWS) is proud to announce a landmark achievement that has brought immense joy and pride to its community. In the prestigious Education World India School Rankings 2025-26, AWS has been ranked Number 1 in Chhattisgarh in the category of Co-Ed Boarding Schools. This recognition marks a defining moment in the school's journey toward excellence and underscores its commitment to holistic education.

The announcement was made at the glittering Education World Awards Ceremony held in New Delhi in October 2025, where distinguished leaders and educators from across the country gathered to celebrate excellence in Indian schooling. Representing AWS, Principal Mr. Girish Kumar accepted the award on behalf of the school, reaffirming its vision to nurture future-ready citizens through quality education.

The Education World survey, conducted in collaboration with AZ Research Partners, Bengaluru, is regarded as one of the most credible assessments of schools in India. Over the past more than two decades, it has evaluated more than 20,000 schools nationwide. This year, over 25,000 stakeholders across 500 cities rated schools on fourteen parameters including academic reputation, faculty competence, infrastructure, sports education, community service, and leadership quality.

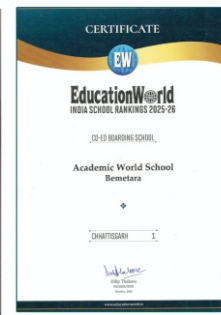

AWS's rise to the top is the result of consistent performance across these parameters. The school has invested in strengthening academics, enhancing co-curricular opportunities, and building state-of-the-art infrastructure. Its emphasis on discipline, life skills, and student welfare has created an environment where learners thrive both inside and outside the classroom. This recognition is not merely about being ranked first; it is a testimony to AWS's philosophy of holistic education, which encompasses character building, leadership training, creativity, and social responsibility.

This award is a reflection of the hard work and collaborative spirit of students, parents, and staff. It is a milestone in an ongoing journey, highlighting the importance of teamwork and collective effort in shaping the institution's success.

At the ceremony, AWS shared the spotlight with some of India's most renowned schools, including The Doon School, Mayo College, The Mann School, Vasant Valley School, Welham Girls' School, Modern School New Delhi, and The Lawrence School, Sanawar. To be ranked alongside such illustrious institutions is a matter of immense pride for AWS and for Chhattisgarh. This achievement places AWS firmly on the national map of excellence in education and demonstrates that quality schooling is flourishing across the country, beyond metropolitan centres.

The award is not just recognition of past achievements but also a call to action for the future. AWS is committed to strengthening its academic and co-curricular programmes, expanding opportunities for students, and embracing innovation in teaching and learning. The leadership team has outlined plans to integrate technology-driven learning, enhance global exposure, and deepen community engagement, while maintaining a balanced environment where academic rigor coexists with creativity, sports, and social responsibility.

Ultimately, this recognition belongs to the entire AWS family. The students, with their enthusiasm and achievements, are the heart of the institution. The parents, with their trust and support, are its backbone. The teachers and staff, with their dedication and passion, are its guiding force. Together, they form a community that believes in the transformative power of education. As AWS celebrates this glorious achievement, it extends heartfelt thanks to everyone who has been part of its journey. The award is a reminder that when a community works together with vision and purpose, excellence is inevitable.
